Lincoln - Way

Community High School

NEW LENOX, ILL.

A Lincoln-Way student finds himself a part of the L-W portrait through participation in the many activities he has to choose from. Mutual interests and ideals produce friendships resulting in a strong unity that lifts school spirit to unwavering heights. He is encouraged to attempt and accomplish and soon finds that the "learn by doing" approach is best suited to meet his needs during and after high school when he begins composing his life's canvas. Pride and appreciation for his contemporaries, his teachers and school administrators is built through sharing this mission while at Lincoln-Way. And that mission is like a great painting in that it never loses its value since education, once attained, can never be taken from you.

As our artist recorded the school year, many subjects caught his eye. The fans' glowing faces illuminated by the bonfire during Homecoming Week; the band marching at a football game; the Knights proudly wearing our red and black school colors; or the somber dignity of a senior's graduation robe—all this and much more contributed to each stroke on the canvas. Each student comprises a part of the final picture. This is what the 1965 Aegis is, a "portrait of Lincoln-Way."

Activities

Variety is the key word for all Lincoln-Way activities. Many different ones are available during the school year, thus encouraging everyone to participate. A student may be an assembly spectator, a performer in a play, a competing athlete, or perhaps, a member of a musical organization. Through joining in these various activities he increases his ability while sharing a mutual interest with others. Aside from the individual importance to the student these activities add a special color and excitement to the school year.

In the top left picture, Queen Pat Burns is being driven around at the Homecoming Game by Bill Morrison. Every girl at Lincoln-Way wishes she were the lucky one to be crowned Homecoming Queen. Top right shows the three Seniors girls of this year's Homecoming court (L to R) Bonnie Fredin, Martha Otto, and Billie Jean Hafk, in the car driven by Norm Beebe. The Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman representatives (L to R) are Barbie Toppen, Cheryl Adams, and Julie Anderson; driver is Ray Jast. Our Japanese foreign exchange student, Chacko, is pictured in the car driven by Terry Mueller. At the Homecoming Assembly, everyone was excited when they heard the names of the Queen and her court. At the right is the flat entered by F.B.L.A. which won first place at the Homecoming dance. Below shows some of the excitement displayed at the bonfire on Thursday night before the big game. Each year's Homecoming is one to be remembered and this year was no exception!

A Homecoming To Be Remembered

Homecoming Week is full of all the ingredients for a full-color canvas. Excitement, fun, and suspense are the mood of the painting with red and black reigning as the basic colors. During the first part of the week the football Knights are honored, Mr. Touchdown is chosen, and the preliminary election for Homecoming Queen is held. On Wednesday students participate in Dress Up Day and the final voting. Thursday brings Sports Day and the traditional Bonfire. With Friday comes the height of all the pageantry, when the 1965 Homecoming Queen and Court are presented at an assembly, ending the mounting suspense. Saturday finishes the painting with the gay, bright colors of the Homecoming Game and Dance, the events everyone has been daydreaming about, including our little artist.

Four qualities are essential for election to the National Honor Society: Scholarship, and the three intangibles, leadership, character and service. Eligible students are selected upon the basis of faculty recommendations in regard to these four points, with membership being limited to fifteen percent of the entire class providing that this number of students qualify. Being chosen for induction is the greatest honor a high school can bestow upon a student and serves as an instigator for a successful future.

Chaco

Each year Lincoln-Way is fortunate to have a foreign exchange student. This year we were doubly fortunate, in that we welcomed two. Hisako Iwamura, better known as "Chaco" of Gifer, Japan, and Minoru Ueda or "Bob" of Kadoma, Japan. They proved to be fine representatives of their country and true Lincoln-Way Knights, not to mention that special touch they added to our portrait with their presence at social events, games and in the classroom. Below and on page 11 are their comments about their year at Lincoln-Way.

Since I came to United States as foreign exchange student from Japan I studied lots of things under the help of many friends of mine. I spent memorable year in the United States. Especially two of my memories are going to be my story which I will remember through my whole life. One of the two is to be chosen to the court of Homecoming. And the other is basketball game. I am so glad that our team went on to win.

When I go back to Japan I will remember all of what happen in America. I hope it contributed to a better international understanding that I came to U.S.A.

HISAKO IWAMURA

Minoru

"I arrived at Lincoln-Way High School on October 23, as an exchange student from Japan through the Lion's Club. Since I became a Lincoln-Way student, I have thoroughly enjoyed American high school life. My life at Lincoln-Way H.S. was very educational, enjoyable, and otherwise. Even after I go back to Japan, I can vividly picture in my mind that I talked with you, what I did with you and what I laughed about with you while I was here. It is certainly beyond my description how I enjoyed Lincoln-Way H.S. Since I came over here, I felt as if I came to my neighbor or somewhere in Japan. Time has passed very quickly at Lincoln-Way H.S. But what I learned when I was with you will be in my heart for keeps.

"I thank you very much to the people who make my stay at Lincoln-Way possible, enjoyable and memorable.

"When you come to Japan, please visit us. We will make your stay in Japan more enjoyable like you did for me.

"In Japan, people say, 'Meeting is the beginning of departure. A departure is the beginning of a gain.'"

"Bob" or Minoru Ueda

Bob poses with his American brother, Tom Hamilton, who has helped Bob enter into the Lincoln-Way activities and enjoy the American way of life.

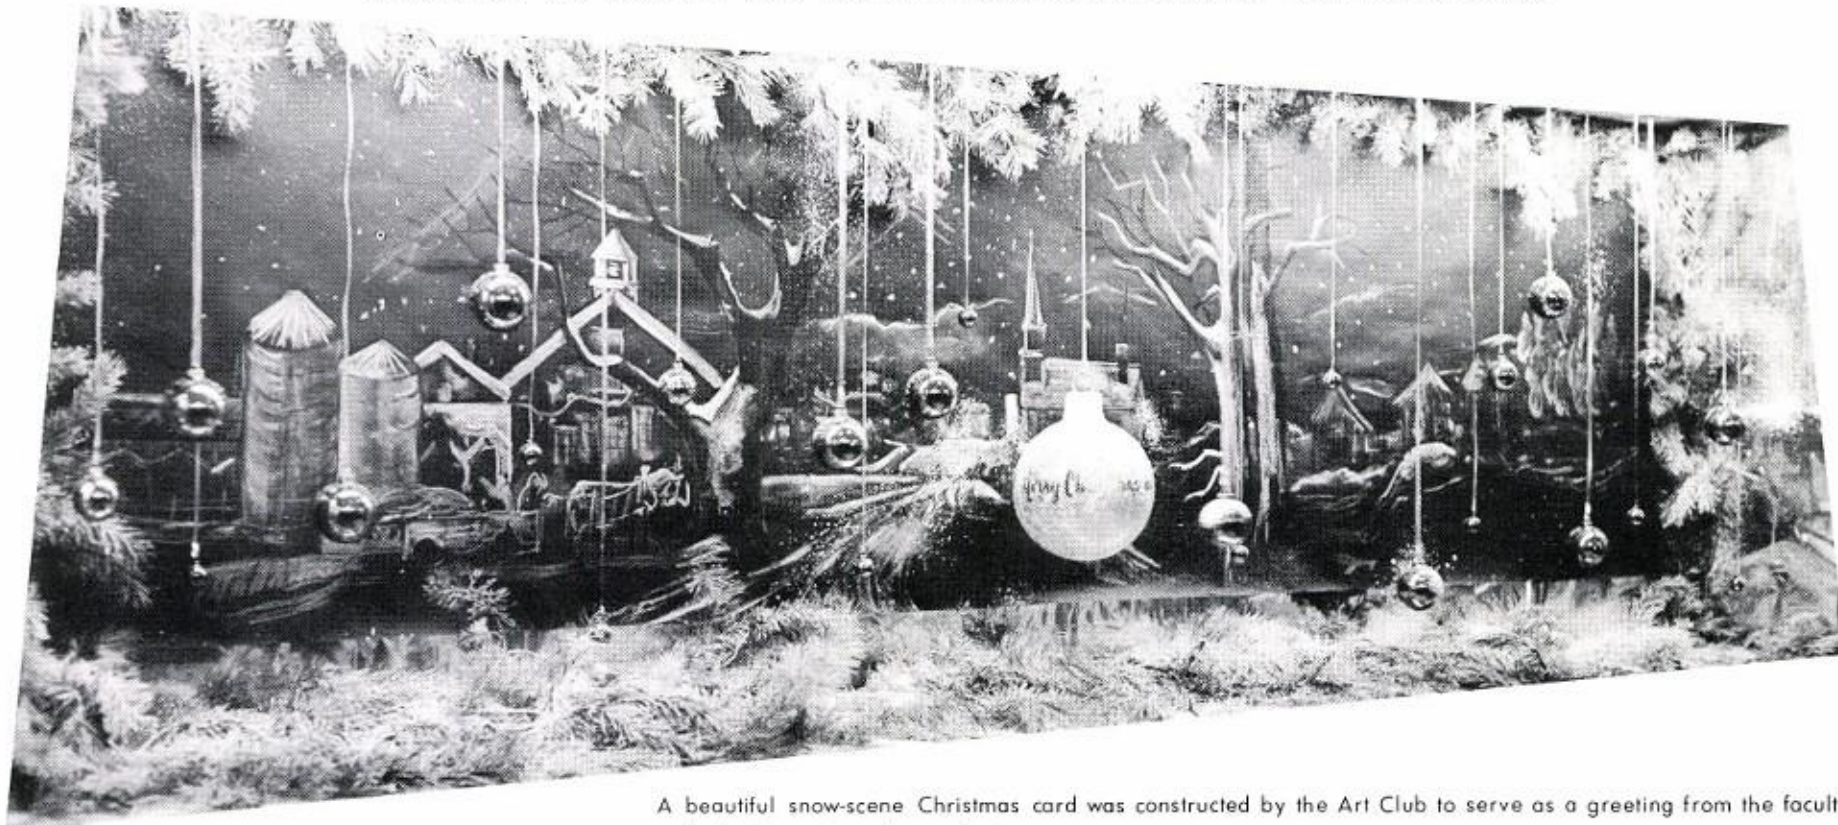

All the colors of the Yuletide season lend a novel beauty to Lincoln-Way's holiday canvas. A panorama of winter green and mistletoe red are detailed brightly against the whiteness of a December snow. Trees decked in gay decorations, with their pastel ornaments and multi-colored lights reflected in the glistening tinsel that spirals to the top of the star-topped peak. Traditional carols and friendly greetings add a nostalgia to the holiday spirit from Christmas' past combined with the merriment of anticipation for the present one. There is the annual assembly which offers the entire school a chance to share in the unique feeling that Christmas inspires. The social whirl brings the Christmas Dance, especially decorated in a winter holiday motif. Finally, there is the solemn beauty of Christmas Vespers which magnifies the religious significance and deep personal meaning Christmas holds for each individual. The completed canvas becomes perhaps the most wonderful present of all to everyone who will open his heart and eyes to the joy and the beauty of the Christmas season.

The Girls Glee sing "Bobby and Bonny" to sleep with a soothing carol as "Mother" Frayer listens attentively.

A beautiful snow-scene Christmas card was constructed by the Art Club to serve as a greeting from the faculty and administration to the students.

Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus were welcome guests with delightful little surprises for all.

This year the Lincoln-Way Music Department staged an operetta that was an exciting, delightful addition to the years' musical performances. Color, artistry and the great music of Gilbert and Sullivan's YEOMEN OF THE GUARD blended to produce an enjoyable event for both performers and audience, when the operetta was presented on November thirteenth and fourteenth in the school auditorium. It joined a long list of past successes and became another unforgettable part of our Lincoln-Way portrait.

One of the scenes in YEOMAN OF THE GUARD included Denny Cappel and Bonnie Fredin doing a lively dance.

Make-up has been put on, and the last warm-up before going on takes place.

Linda Shreffler practices her greeting before going on stage.

Contest Play

This year's Contest Play was "SUBMERGED," a one act tragedy depicting six men stranded in a submarine in the ocean depths. Miss Bonnie Luechtefeld of the English Department was the director. The play was presented February 6 at Oak Lawn and later at Reavis.

Pay Assemblies

Lincoln-Way has been treated to some very interesting assemblies this year. Our first, on October ninth, presented the Pattersons. Mr. Patterson, an outstanding athlete who had achieved Olympic success, performed numerous feats of strength and agility, and Mrs. Patterson exhibited some of her art work. At the next one, on December sixteenth, we listened to Mr. Ede Pfeiffer, a participant in the Hungarian Revolt against the Soviet Union, speak about his experiences with Communism. Then on March fourth, Mr. Kenneth Goodman, world renowned organist (right) performed many selections including Bach and Wagner, ending his program with theme variations on "Exodus". Because he was received so enthusiastically he performed the Lincoln-Way Loyalty as an encore, much to the surprise of everyone. Our final pay assembly on April 9, Mr. Rudy Hughes, ended the entertaining assemblies that contributed that extra bit of color which makes this portrait a truly special one. In the photo above, the Mokena American Legion color guard is shown after they had presented a flag to our school, which will fly on the new flag pole on the football field.

"Time Out For Ginger"

TIME OUT FOR GINGER, this year's All School Play, presented an entertaining comedy theme which centered around Ginger's father's desire for a son and Ginger's efforts to supply a facsimile by trying out for the high school football team. Ginger's athletic ambitions triggered many humorous situations including the question of whether a girl should be allowed to play on the high school football team. Ginger finally claimed her right to play on the team with a good many guffaws sandwiched in between. The play ended on a predictable enough note as Ginger resumed the ways of a lady much to the delight of all concerned, even her father.

Drum major and majorettes: Standing - W. Mark, W. Batson, S. Schladenhauffen. Kneeling - B. Otis.

One of the harder working groups at Lincoln-Way is the Band. They devote a great deal of time and effort in preparing the numerous assemblies and concerts presented during the year. Concerts are given in the fall and spring. A special Anniversary Band Concert was given January 31, after which present and past members participated in a reunion and reception. The Band also plays for the Christmas Assembly, N.H.S. inductions, basketball and football games, pep assemblies, and their own special tours and performances. Because of these efforts the school year is a more enjoyable one.

One of the most outstanding achievements a boy can attain in the Lincoln-Way Music Department is to become a member of the Singing Knights. Members are chosen from the Freshmen and Mixed Choruses on the basis of their talent and ability plus a willingness to apply themselves to music. Concerts, Christmas Vespers, an assembly, the spring variety show and various singing engagements throughout the Will County area provide sufficient work to keep them busy during the school year. The praise and enjoyment their performances receive adds to the reputation of the Lincoln-Way Music Department.

Knight Life '65 was the annual production staged by the Girls Glee Club with the help of the Stage Band and Singing Knights.

This year's theme depicted a young gentleman traveling around the world to find his true love. His travels take him to such places as India, where he witnessed an oriental dance, and the United States to visit a night club. In Spain a matador exhibited her skills, but it was Rome where he found his true love, and there the final finale of knight life '65 took place.

Freshman Chorus

Freshman Chorus is a course offered to all Freshmen. Boys and girls who are interested in music are encouraged to join. Although the chorus does not put on any performances during the year, it helps the student to decide whether or not he wishes to further his musical career at Lincoln-Way. It also provides instruction for the student in music and helps him to become acquainted with the integral parts of music. The student also learns leadership and responsibility as the chorus does have various offices such as president and section leader. These officers are elected by the students for the most part and are expected to help other members of the chorus during the school year. The members of the chorus also aid the other choruses during the year by helping them put on their concerts and the annual operetta.

Officers:

STANDING: Randy Davis, Barbara Richardson, Bobby Jo Smith, Marla Fant.

SECOND ROW: Judy Kalkbrenner, Patsy Grisham, Lynn Marek.

THIRD ROW: Bill McCure, Michele Dranchak.

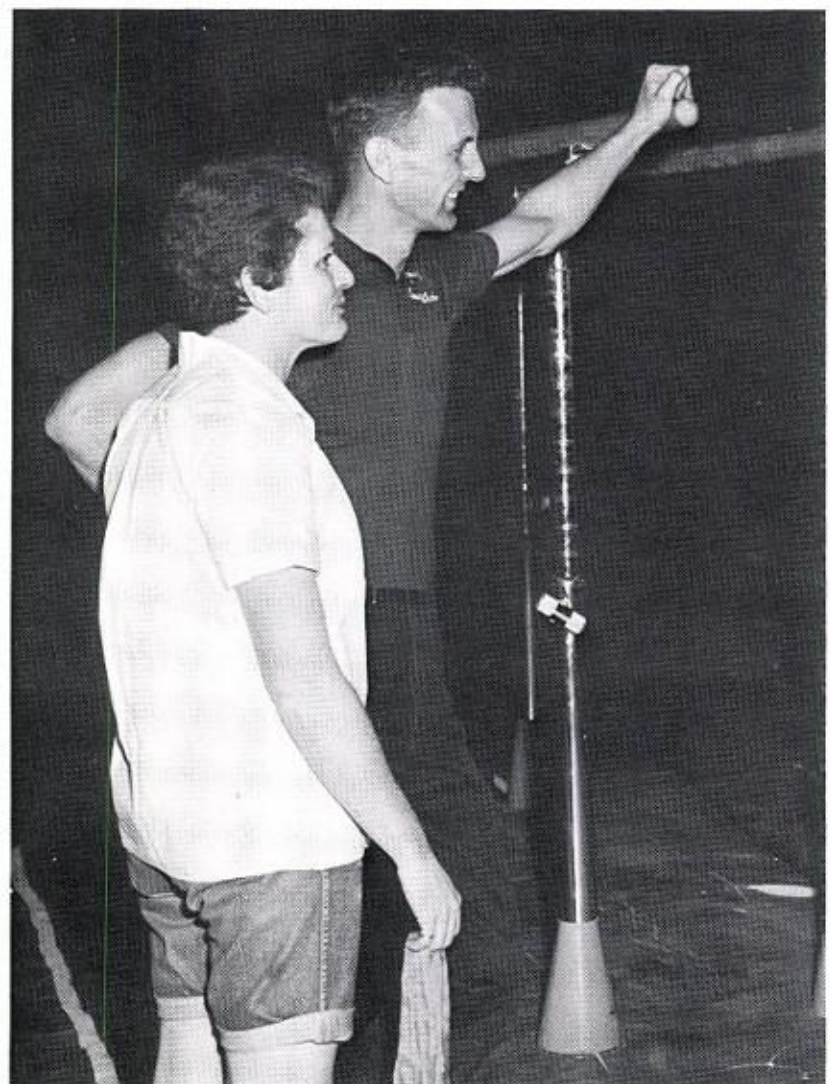

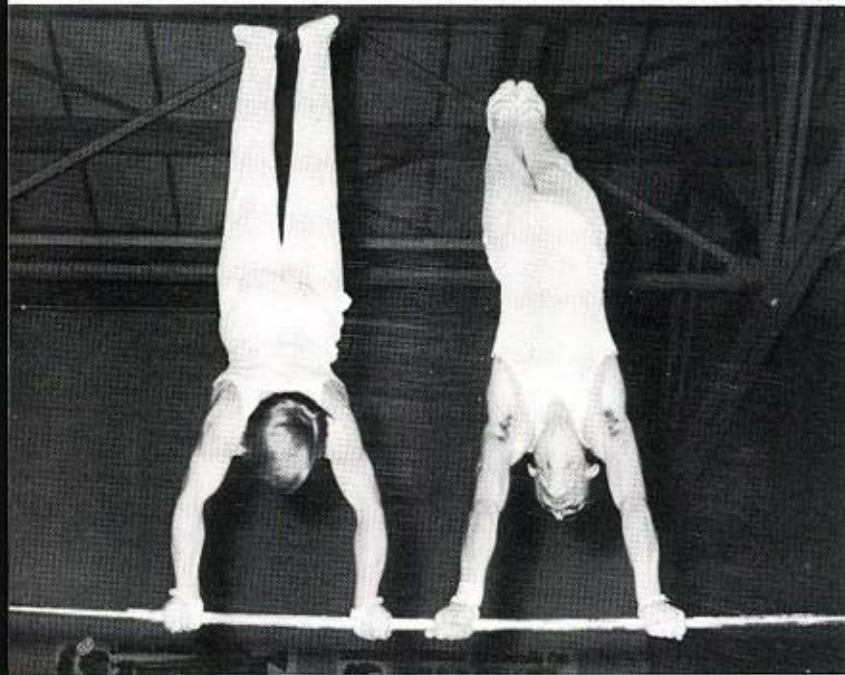

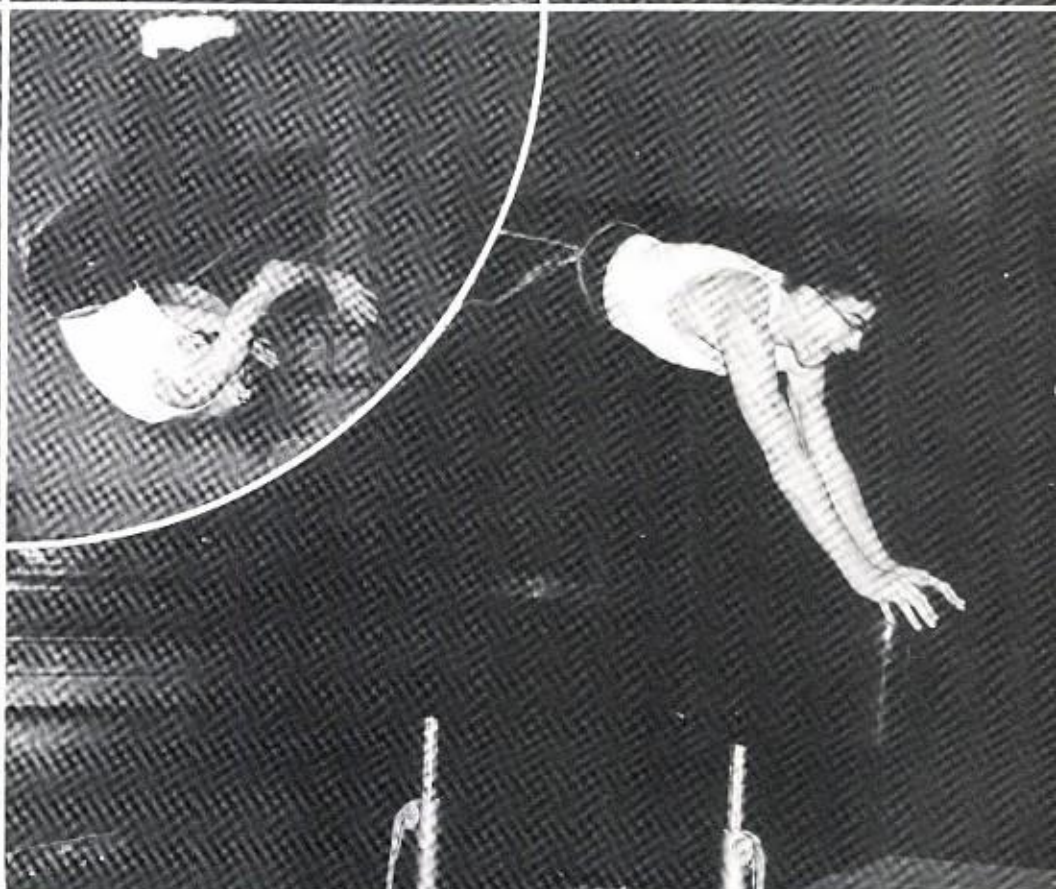

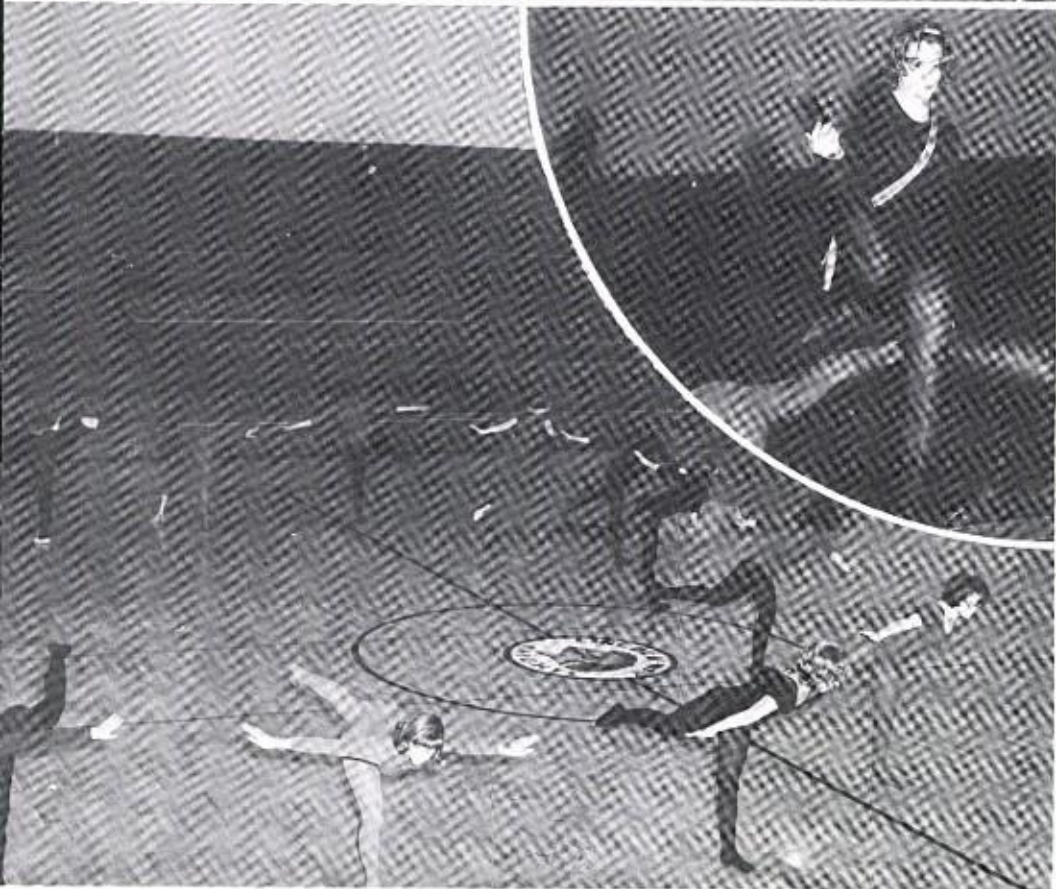

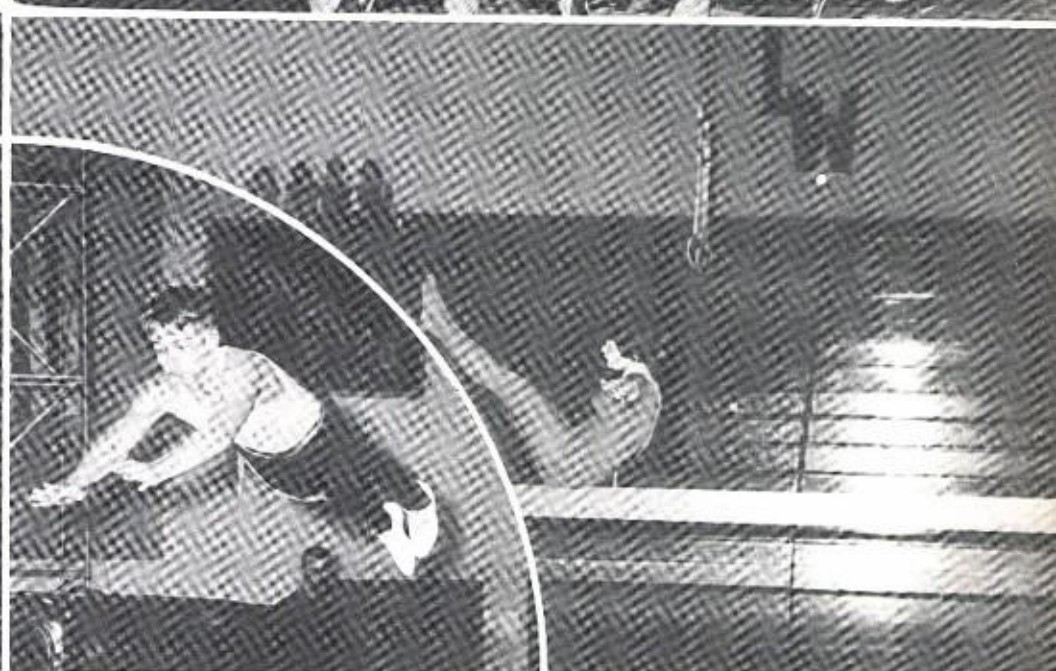

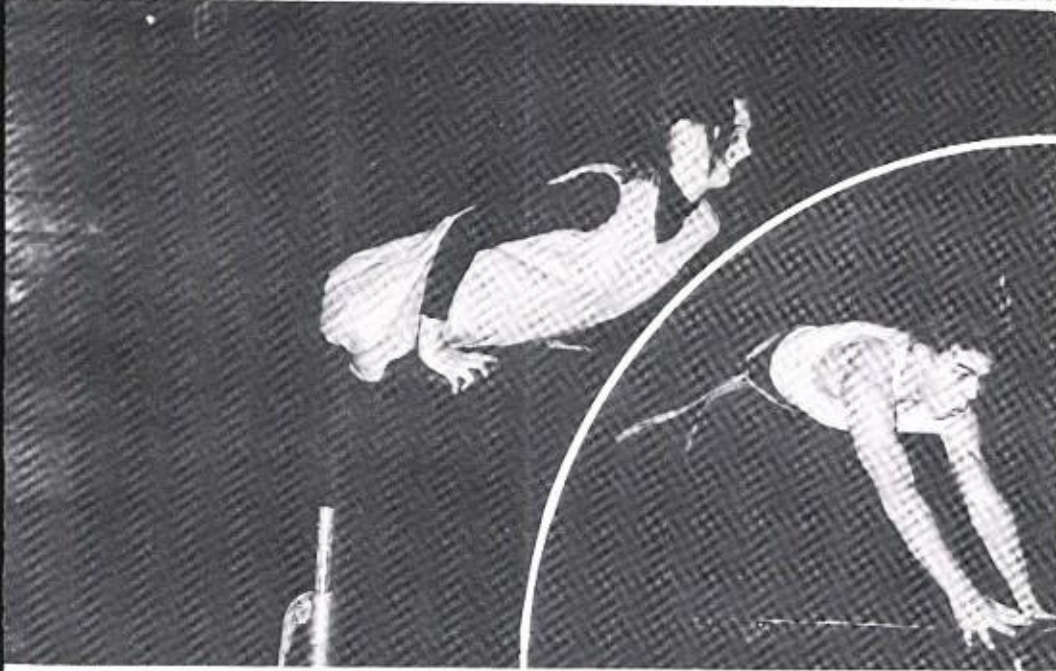

P.E. Show

Practically every department at Lincoln-Way presents a performance, show, or exhibition during the school year and the Physical Education Department is no exception. They prepared and presented the P.E. Show this year on April 2. To give a representation of their accomplishments in the physical education field various types of physical activities were performed. The girls performed rhythm and free exercises, modern dance compositions, and stunts on the balance beam. Both boys and girls participated in hand balancing, tumbling, vaulting, and on the ladder. Special awards were given to the Boy's Gymnastics Team and other participants in the P.E. Show. The Boy's Gymnastics Team rounded out the show by performing stunts in their specialties.

In the upper left, J. Schwab portrays the "Lord's Prayer" in a modern dance. S. Pearson and L. Montgomery practice for their dance in the next photo down. D. Stellwagon and D. Torrence are caught in air on the horizontal bar. Going over three brave stunt girls is C. Sample. Directors of the P.E. Show, Miss B. Federman and Mr. J. Wiedman, look on as the gymnasts work out.

Students interested in debate spend free time acquiring a knowledge of research techniques and speaking ability in preparation for area and state-wide debate competition. This year L-W debate team activity included more students than any previous year, and was coached by Mr. Manny Steil. In addition to sponsoring the 1964 all-school political debate on presidential candidates, L-W debaters participated in five debate tournaments and sponsored the annual Lincoln-Douglas debate tournament at Lincoln-Way.

When entering Lincoln-Way as a freshman the student meets new friends and acquaintances. Through-out the four years he learns to work together with other people, and by his senior year has chosen his closest friends and acquaintances.

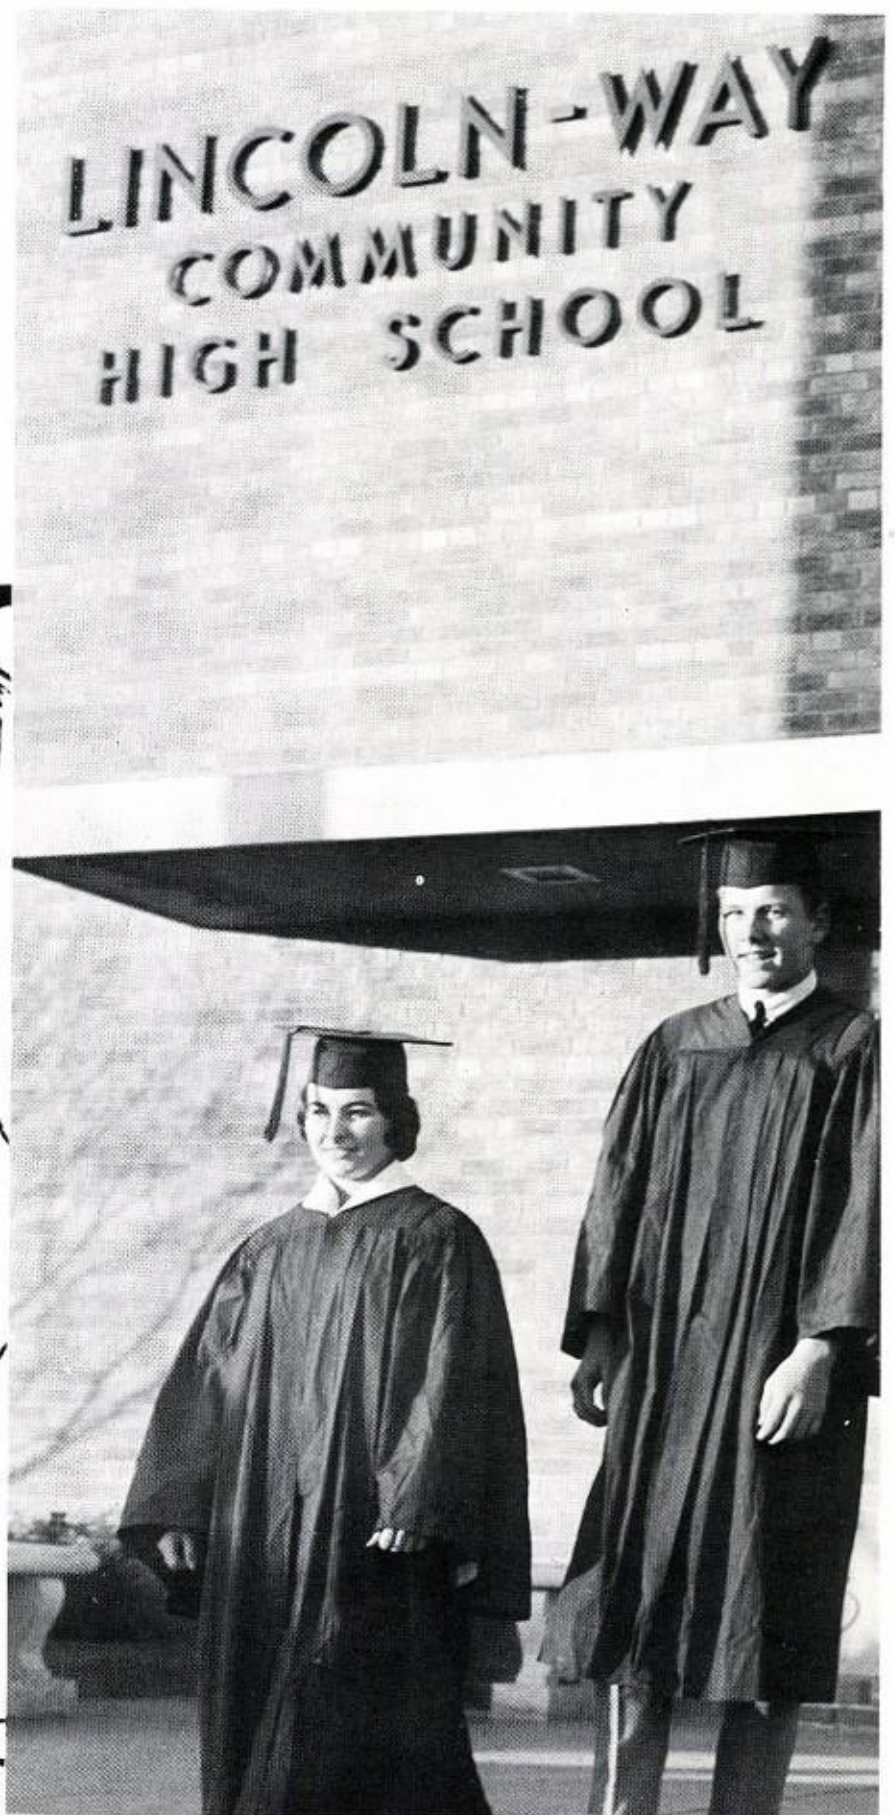

Being the oldest students at Lincoln-Way they set examples for their younger classmates. Seniors are honored every year by choosing one girl at homecoming time as the school's queen to rein over the festive season.

The seniors year is the final stroke painted at Lincoln-Way by our artist recorder. It is the end of one painting but only the beginning of a fresh new canvas as he leaves the world of education and enters adult society.

Seniors

Time passes quickly from entrance into the strange new world of high school to a senior's final year and long worked-for graduation. All past events, with their joy and sadness, have come and gone so rapidly that perhaps one did not realize the years were slipping away. Friends know that they are meeting for the last time, and the conversation turns to years gone by when they were young, inexperienced freshmen, or perhaps to the year they tackled their first term paper. Athletic triumphs are delivered and scholastic efforts are part of us. Four important years have passed and all knowledge that has been acquired will now be used to climb towards higher achievements in college, vocations, or whatever. The time has come to say good-bye and the journey of creating a life of contribution and success begins.

Underclassmen

Juniors

This was a year of new responsibilities for the Junior class. We met them with fresh ideas and hard work. As a result, the Senior Prom and Banquet were bigger and better than ever.

This was also the year we received our class rings, and as we realized how close our Senior year was, preparation for college and the future took on a new urgency and importance.

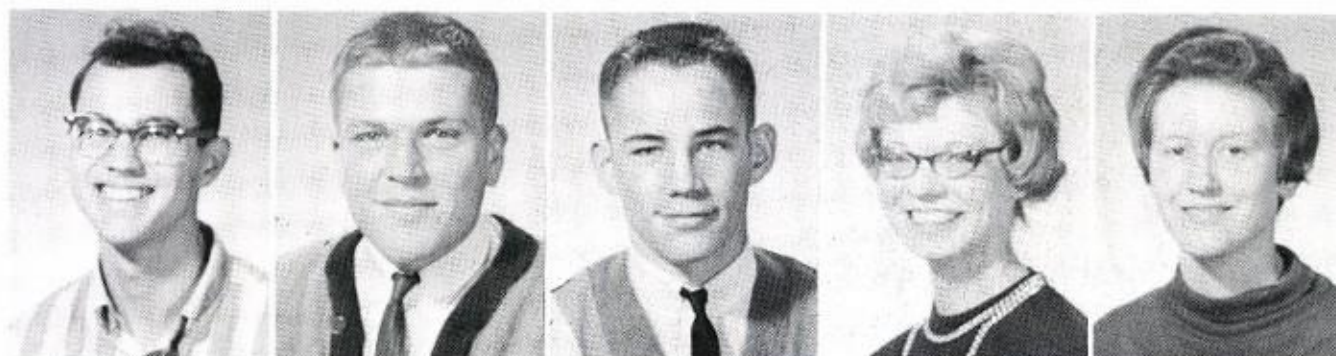

We look forward to the coming challenges and rewards that our Senior year at Lincoln-Way will bring.

This year, to raise money for the Senior Prom and Banquet, the Junior class sold refreshments, among other projects. The sales went well. Almost everyone wanted a cool drink between half time.

Juniors find that money making can be fun.

One of the objectives of the Junior year in high school is the upgrading at the end of the year. From the Junior level in high school we move up to the top rung of the ladder when we become Seniors. As the year moves to the close we feel the effects of a year finished, but a new painting is to be started upon the Senior canvas which is now spread before us.

Sophomores

Our second year at Lincoln-Way proved to be one of responsibility effort and participation as we assumed the challenges of scholastic and social achievement.

We became more confident and entered into numerous school activities with interest and vigor. A growing maturity resulted from our participation and efforts to become an active part of Lincoln-Way.

Now, as we enter our third year at Lincoln-Way, we stand to accept the ever-growing responsibilities of the junior class with the knowledge of past experiences.

Lincoln-Way has been, and ever will be, noted for its interest in its students' culture.

When the individual entered L-W he learned to appreciate the poetry and short stories of Edgar Allan Poe, who skillfully draped suspense on the structure of his words. As a sophomore he enjoys Mark Twain, and as a Junior he will study American Poetry and Literature of Whitman, Holmes and others.

In the coming years, as a senior, the student is acquainted with English literary artists, such as Shakespeare and Milton.

Freshmen

This was a year of discovery and growth. We began our freshman year at Lincoln-Way with traditional forebodings of entering a strange, new place. But, as the days went by, we relaxed and joined in the activities and fun. There were sports and social events to attend, and we came to know what a high school meant.

Now, we stand on the threshold of our sophomore year. Having achieved poise and confidence, we wait eagerly to prove ourselves in the future.

Freshmen Make History

This was the first year in the history of Lincoln-Way that a Freshman class constructed a Homecoming float. "Sink'em Knights!" was the theme. It was carried out with an image of the Homewood-Flossmoor Vikings being sunk by the L-W Knights. If this enthusiasm is indicative of what this class will do, the next three years at Lincoln-Way should be full of pleasant surprises originating from the 1965 Freshman class.

How does it feel to make history? Well, if you don't know just ask the Class of '68. They are the first Freshman Class in the history of Lincoln-Way to submit a flat for the Homecoming. This flat is pictured at the right. The inscription is "Sink'em Knights," and as you can see the Lincoln-Way Knights are sinking the Homewood-Flossmoor Vikings. Although the flat did not win a prize, it is the product of the hard work of the freshman Flat Committee and several class members. This class has come up with an original idea this year, and it will be interesting to see what they will do in their next three years here at Lincoln-Way.

A new and important step is taken when a student enters Lincoln-Way as a freshman. Here he must adjust to being on the bottom rung of the high school ladder. Here at Lincoln-Way a freshman experiences a real sense of school spirit in which the whole student body joins, and not just a few individuals. Of course, as at any other school, he must become accustomed to the code of conduct and abide by it. All of these things make an interesting and rewarding year as a freshman at Lincoln-Way.

The core of education is the people who teach and administer school policies. Their abilities and dedication to their profession contributes a great deal to the success of the individual and the nation, for it is their task to inspire the student, to develop his mind and instill an understanding and respect for the necessary rules of society. Their influence is felt in almost all aspects of government, business, the creative and practical arts, and ultimately affects the quality of these study areas. Often, a student's future ambition is nurtured and his skills are shaped and improved by an alert teacher. Thus, the faculty and administration represent their Lincoln-Way portrait by constantly striving for the ideals of the American way of life.

Faculty and Administration

On the right side of this page are shown the members of the Faculty Executive Committee, who act as communication links between the classroom and the Board of Education. They are, from top to bottom: A. Sutton, Robert Taylor, Paul Thomas, Robert Van Rheeden, and Jerome Wiedman.

Business

Paul M. Thomas
M.S., University of Illinois

Today's world relies tremendously upon business and commercial enterprises. Lincoln-Way's Business Department keeps students abreast of the constant developments by supplying them with up to date equipment, and instruction that stresses the efficiency and dependability essential in preparation for business vocations.

The typing courses are an important part of the business curriculum. Mr. Thomas assists one of his students who seems to be having a problem with her work.

Fine Arts

Lincoln-Way's Fine Arts Department is comprised of the Home Economics, Agriculture and Art Departments.

The Art department has a program of oil painting, sculpture, drawing with different medias, plus many other activities.

The L-W Home Economics program enables girls to sew and therefore open the doors of fashion and personalization to them. Planning for the future also heads the list of merits of this department. Cooking and baking both essentials, are taught to enable them to plan and cook a balanced and delicious meal for their future families.

Agriculture is essential in our modern times, and teaching the new methods is Mr. Van Rheeden. Not only do the boys enrolled learn the "how", but also the "what" of methods to help their future vocations.

The Lincoln-Way Social Studies Department has an ever growing task. As the scope of world political, economic and social relationship is increased, students must be informed about their civic responsibilities and the fulfillment of them. International brotherhood requires much mutual effort, understanding, and consideration to be lasting and beneficial both in the present and the future. It is through classes in history, civics, and sociology that the student begins to realize and assume his part in the search for international and human understanding that will shape the future of the world.

Industrial Arts

The Industrial Arts program gives Lincoln-Way students the opportunity to develop skills for a technical job or advanced education. Courses, such as woodworking and metalwork, may be a preparation for fields like engineering or architecture. Students learn the importance of accuracy while building skills for their future vocational trade.

Foreign Language

Lincoln-Way Foreign Language Department offers courses in Latin, French, Spanish and German. Along with studying the mechanics of the language, students also learn about the people who speak it and the country they live in. Such a program leads to a better appreciation and understanding of the customs, accomplishments, and attitudes in other lands. This is yet another tool to bridge the gulf of international communication.

Science

George F. Abraham

Arboretum Club

Science is one of the most talked about fields, and is probably stressed slightly more than others. Students must prepare themselves for a fast moving tomorrow. With all the scientific studies, such as the race to the moon, people should have some background in science so they have an idea what is happening in the world around them. The interest shown in science at Lincoln-Way illustrates that the students realize it's important in our world today.

Administration

A. Hunter Chapman, SUPERINTENDENT

Lincoln-Way is truly a unique school. With the pressures of an ever-changing world and increasing educational challenges, Lincoln-Way's administration carefully analyzes and plans for an education most beneficial to the student. The rapid growth of the school district has made new additions to the school building and teaching staff imperative, if these challenges are to be successfully met and the students are to be provided with an educational program adequate to their needs. To acquire this education, an incentive to learn is necessary. As it is always a deep concern to the educator, new methods of improving these learning techniques are constantly being developed and explored in the various departments of our school. Through these carefully guided efforts, the Lincoln-Way student becomes a more confident, diversified individual readily adapted to the demands of today's society.

"Congratulations to the Aegis staff for this Lincoln-Way story, so skillfully told, and so thoughtfully recorded. We are all proud of this year's accomplishments, and now through the efforts of your staff, these events help to recall many pleasant memories. This 1965 Aegis represents one of the finest chapters in the eleven year Lincoln-Way history."

The fighting Knights is the basic theme of Lincoln-Way's sports portrait. Red and black have been chosen as the predominate colors. Highlights of the victory portrait have been painted with excellent sportsmanship, combined with teamwork.

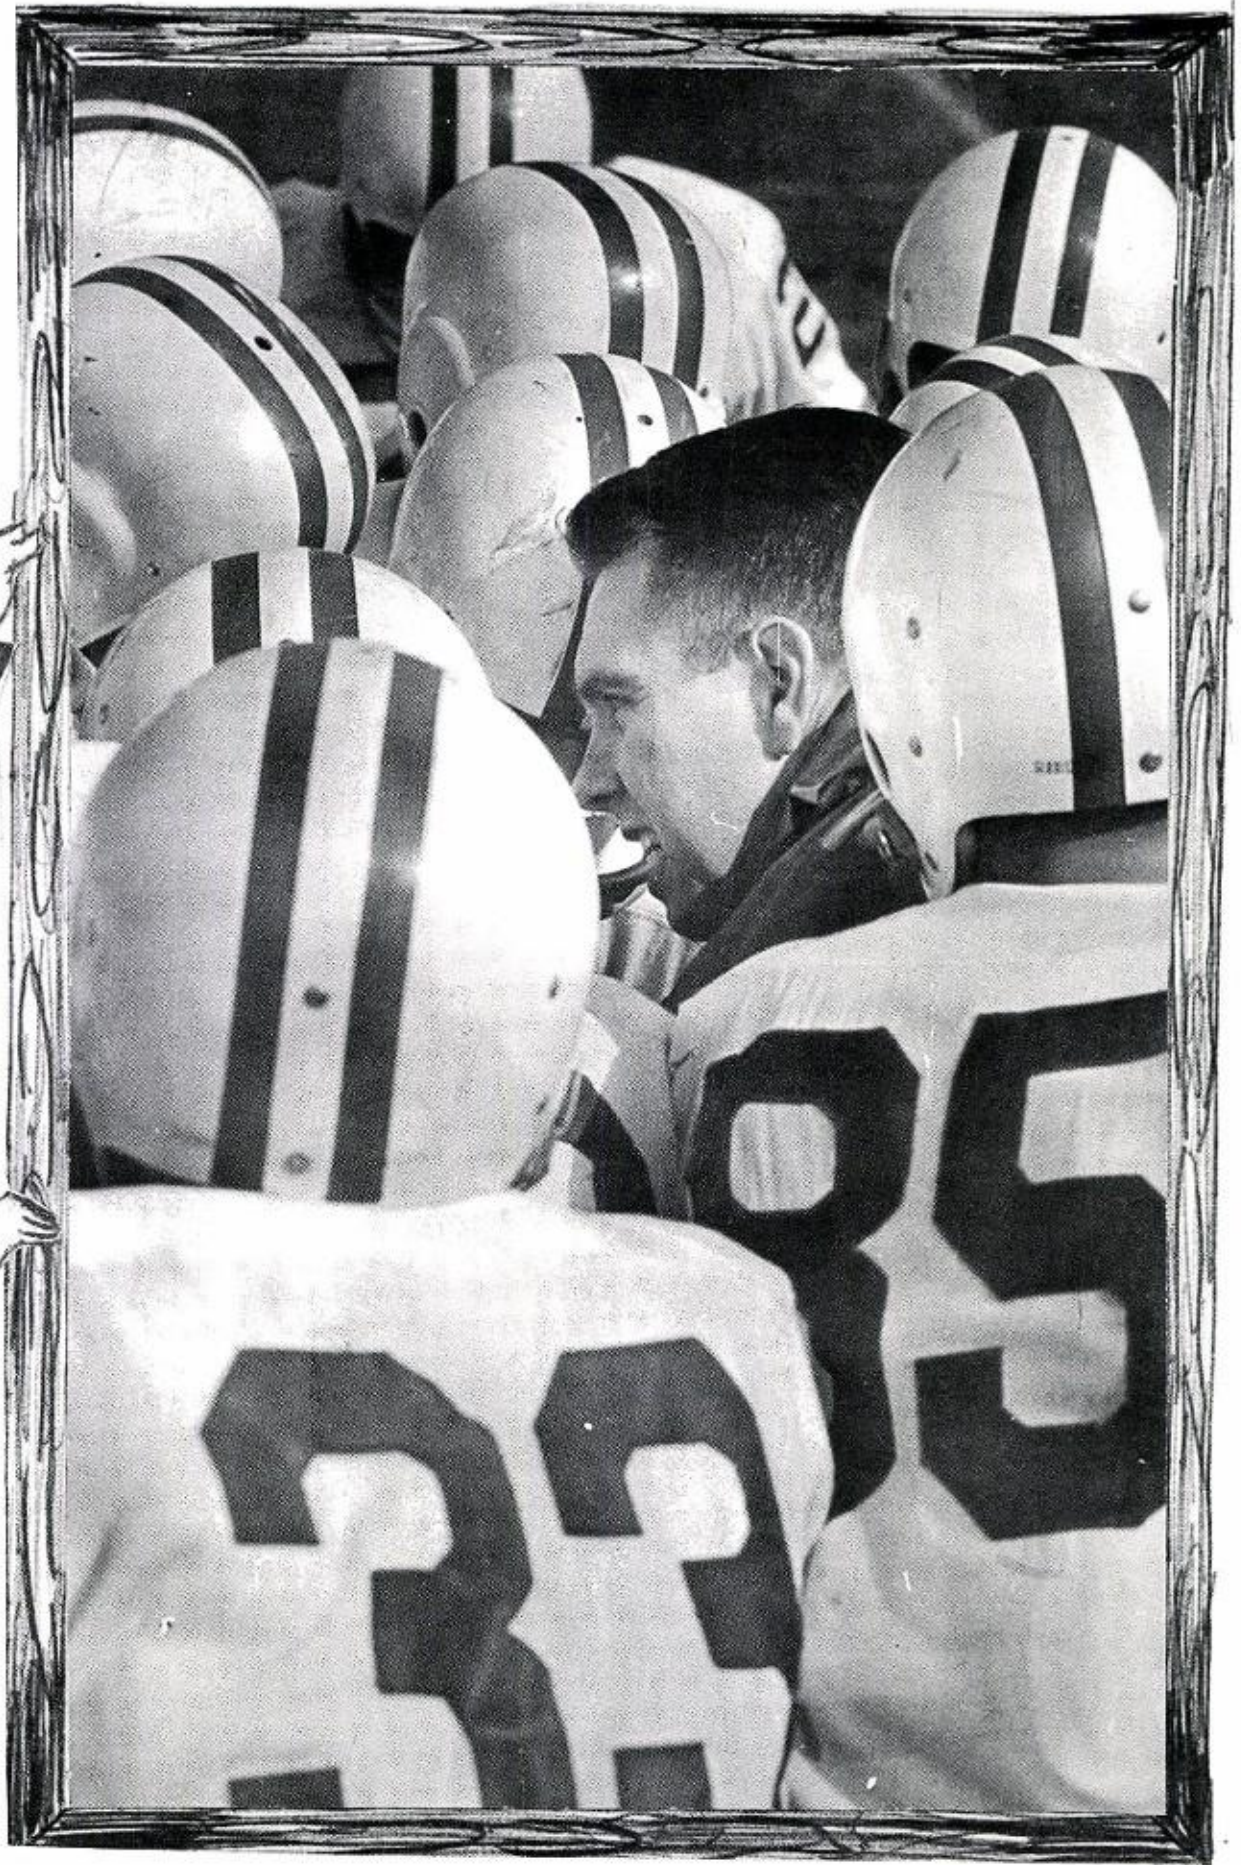

Our knights portrait of victories is symbolized by the shield, the palette, the sword and the brush which are used to compose the canvas of victories.

The portrait of our teams is now complete, with the frame of success placed around it.

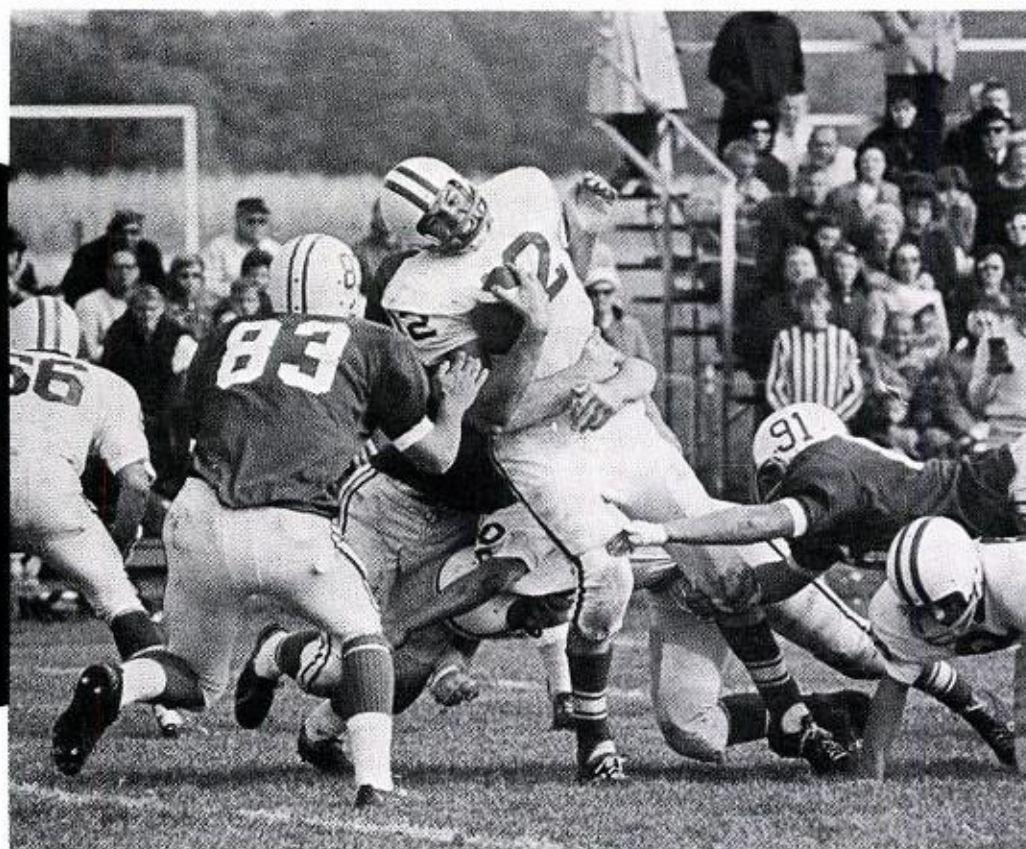

Athletics

Part of life painted at Lincoln-Way is leadership. In order to have this quality during and after educational training it must be inspired in and taught to students. Besides a winning team and good sportsmanship this is one of the main objectives that the coaches have in training their boys for the various sports.

One victory highlighted the football season, and that was against a ten year rival, Carl Sandburg. It was the first time in our history that we beat the Eagles. The nineteen Junior and two Sophomores who participate in next year's grid action are looking forward to a great season. A high spot in this years action was when Senior Howie Grimes was elected as All-Conference Halfback in the Southwest Suburban Conference.

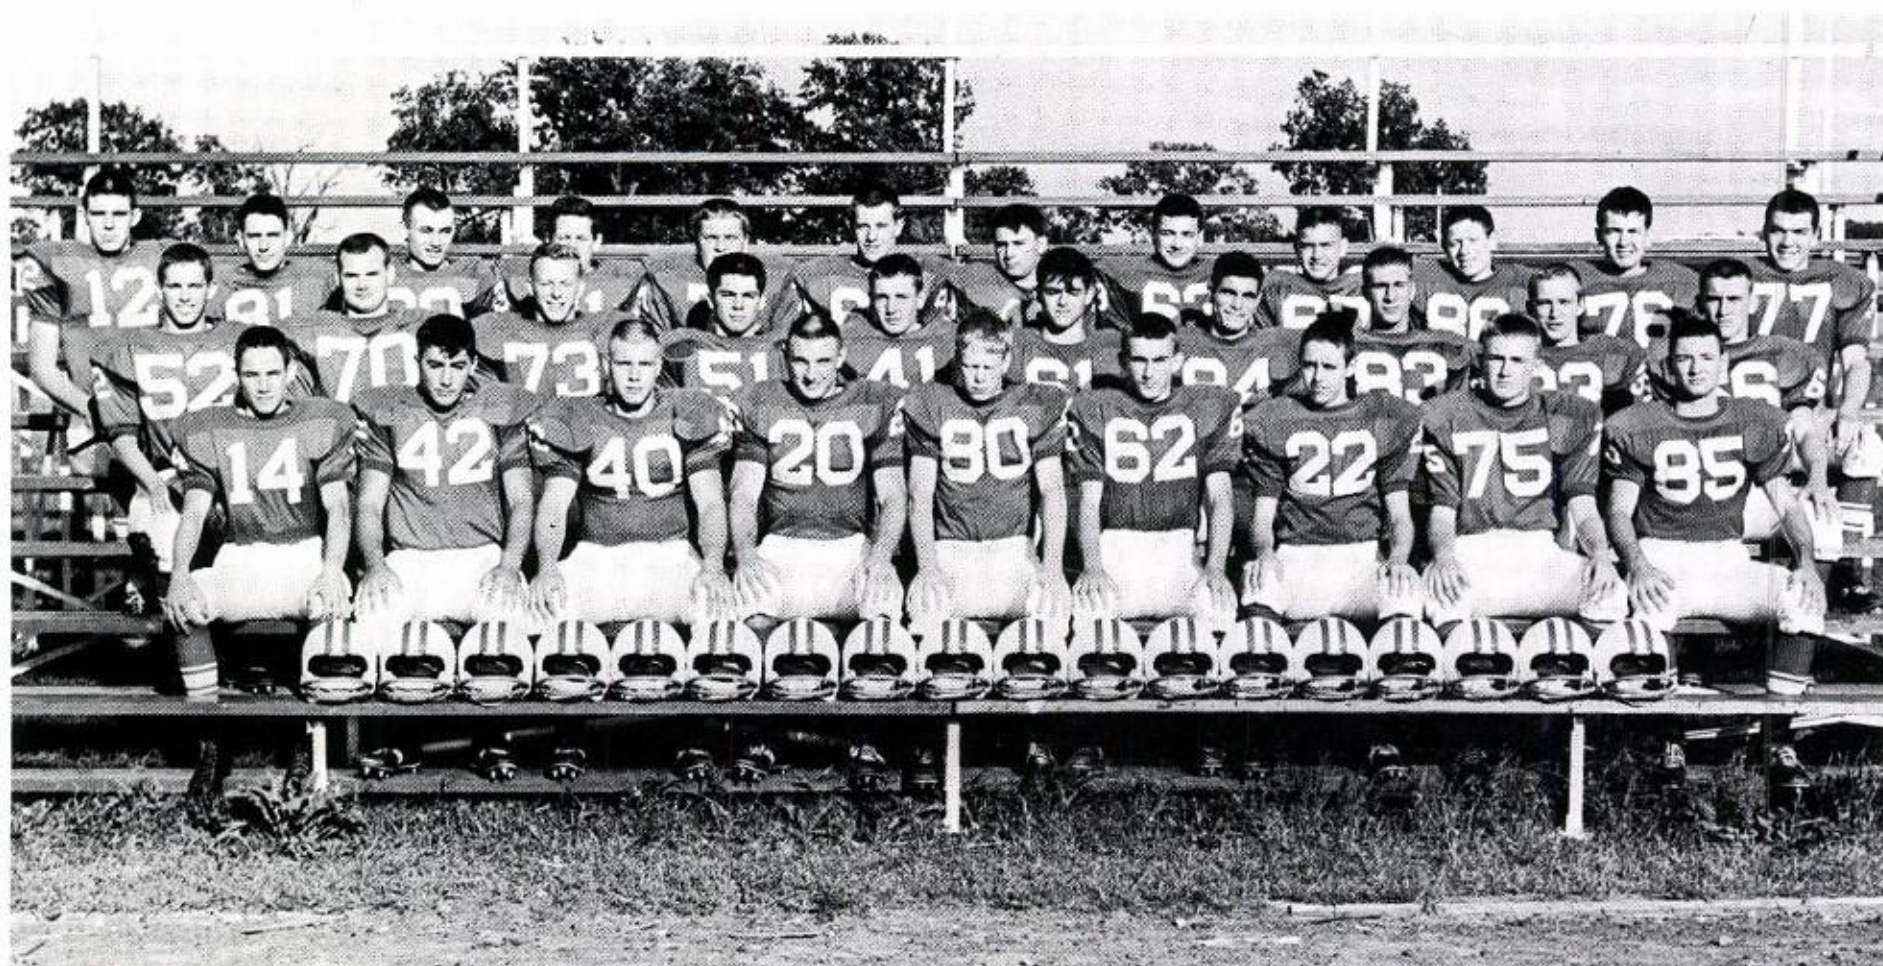

Howie Grimes, No. 12 with ball, battles H. F. defenders for added yardage.

SECOND ROW: Ray Hommes, Marty McLemore, Ted Weborn, Rick Brooks, Don Smego, Tom Cochran, Bob Bowser, Craig Cieply, Marc Schonwise, Wendy Bormett.

Lincoln-Way's varsity football coaching staff consists of Ron Stopka, Bob Allen, Ray [unclear] and Ron Meleney. Head Coach Allen guided the team to the first defeat of Earl Sandburg in 11 years.

Coach Bob Allen talks things over with Tom Stoner.

This year the Knights experienced the techniques of a new head football coach, Bob Allen. He and his capable staff not only taught the boys how to play football, but team spirit and team-work as well.

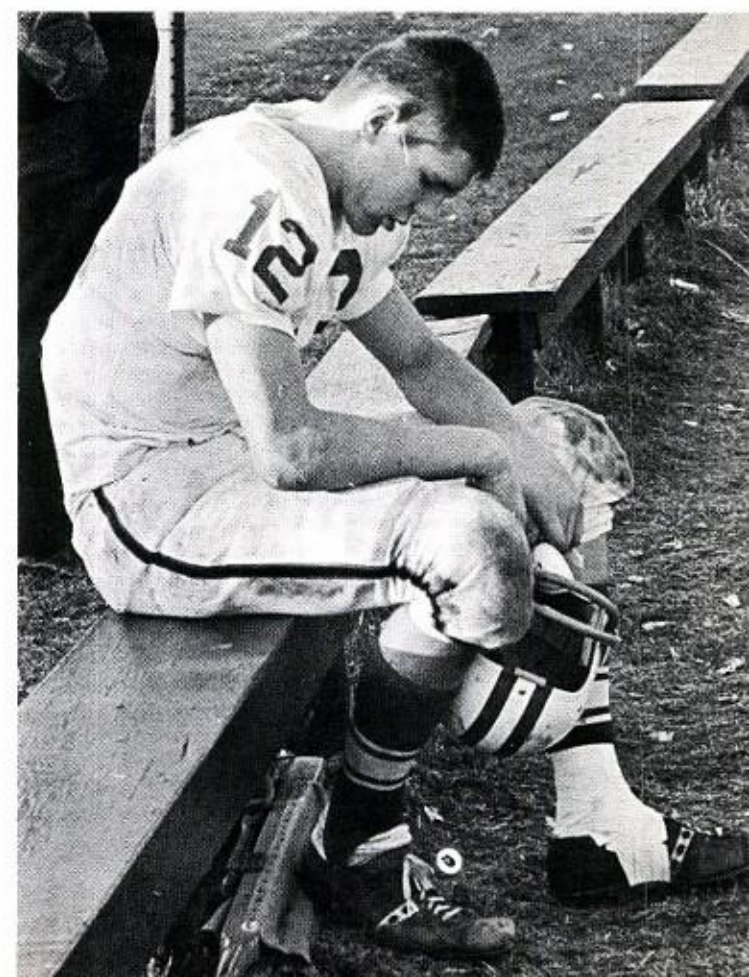

Hands are high as the Knights score against the Sandburg Eagles.

No place to go; Tom Hamilton finds no way to evade Homewood-Flossmoor defenders.

The other side of the coin shows that football isn't all glory. Howie Grimes, All-Conference Halfback, shows some of the strain of the sport. Disappointment, as well as exhaustion, as part of football.

Although the Sophomore Football season could not be described as a great one, some of the boys on the team have proven to be tough varsity contenders. Frank Fleck, halfback for the Sophomores, scored all of the touchdowns. Al Jahneke distinguished himself by his passing.

Freshman Football Knights

New prospects for Lincoln-Way's football team arrive each year. This year a new group of Freshmen boys established themselves as excellent bets for future gridiron success. Their Freshmen team ended the year with the best record of all three Lincoln-Way teams. Their record of three wins, three losses and one tie proved that these boys are good football material and capable Football Knights.

Athletic Director

A new athletic director complimented this years coaching staff. "Coach" Joe Kruzich not only acts as athletic director but also serves as assistant principal and advises the Student Service Organization. In accepting the responsibility of athletic director "Coach" Kruzich used his past experience to augment the athletic and P.E. program here at Lincoln-Way.

Attending athletic events is not the only job for an athletic director. Coach Kruzich also finds much paper work is involved in his work.

Varsity Cross-country

R. Jast, R. Smith, G. Gumbel, J. Wildhaber, T. Jasinski.

Any boy may participate in the Cross Country event which is a highly competitive individual sport. This sport requires much conditioning, interest, and stamina. This was Coach Norman West's first year as a Cross Country coach, and although the season wasn't as successful as expected there is some fine material which has raised hopes for next year.

BACK ROW: Coach Norman West, H. Osmus, Mr. Fitzgerald, D. Lewin, J. Estes, G. Gumbel, T. Jasinski, C. Singer, Manager K. Osmus.

BACK ROW: K. Hulet, J. Weldin, G. Spiess.

Frosh-Soph Cross Country competition this year was not as successful as hoped, but the team showed talent and initiative for next year's Varsity competition.

1964-65 Conference Champs

Tom Hamilton, number 20, tries for two as Sandburg defenders look on.

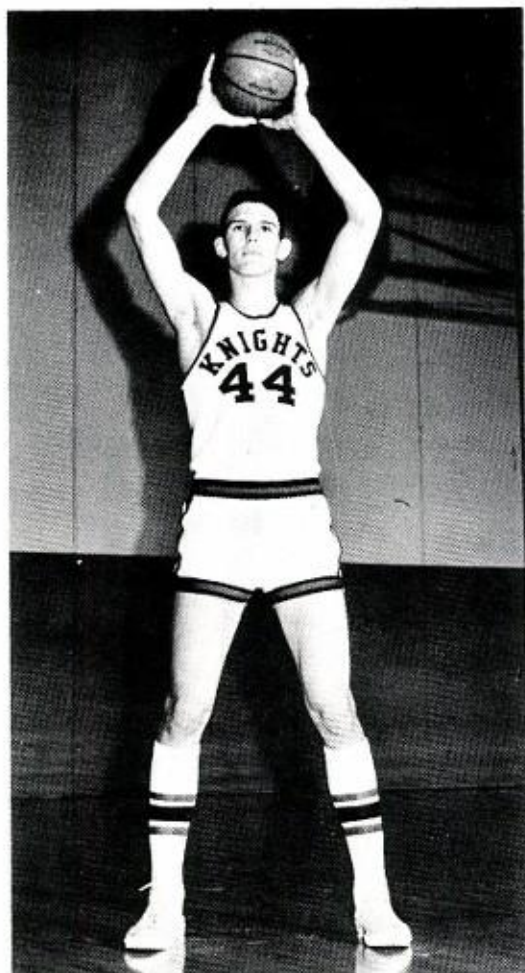

Rich Schroeder grabs a rebound.

For the first time in the history of Lincoln-Way High School, the basketball Knights obtained sole possession of the Southwest Suburban Conference Championship with an outstanding 13-1 record. This year the Knights were under the leadership of a new head varsity coach, A.L. Willis, and his able assistant, Ed Edson. The last time Lincoln-Way participated in a conference championship was in 1960-61 when the team had to share the championship with Homewood-Flossmoor. Undoubtedly, this has been the year of the basketball Knights.

The purpose of Lincoln-Way organizations is to promote educational interests and to further understanding in working with others.

Goodwill seems to be the theme of the clubs this year. Several of the organizations worked to contribute happiness to those who's lives are void of joy; other clubs have worked for the betterment of the school and student body.

Organizations are the added complimentary color of Lincoln-Way's portrait.

The Student Council represents the student body in school government, and acts as an intermediate between students and faculty. To broaden their perspective, council members attend three area conferences during the year at which school systems are discussed and ideas for improving the effectiveness of student government are exchanged. Many services besides student government are rendered, including the printing and distributing of the Little Red Book at no cost to the students. They also obtain money to finance the Lincoln-Way foreign exchange student who becomes an honorary council member. Probably the most outstanding project the council conducts is the support of a Korean orphan, Chung Hi Soon, through the Foster Parent Plan.

Student Service Organization

Here, a student controlled study hall functions as part of the effective S. S. O. operation at Lincoln-Way.

The Student Service Organization is a distinctive Lincoln-Way group which serves the school in many ways. The S. S. O. was organized mainly for the student's benefit, and operates student supervised study halls and lunch lines. Student self-discipline serves as the basis of such a program's success.

A controlling body, the executive board, reviews minor disciplinary cases with more severe cases being advised upon by the faculty and administration.

Mummers

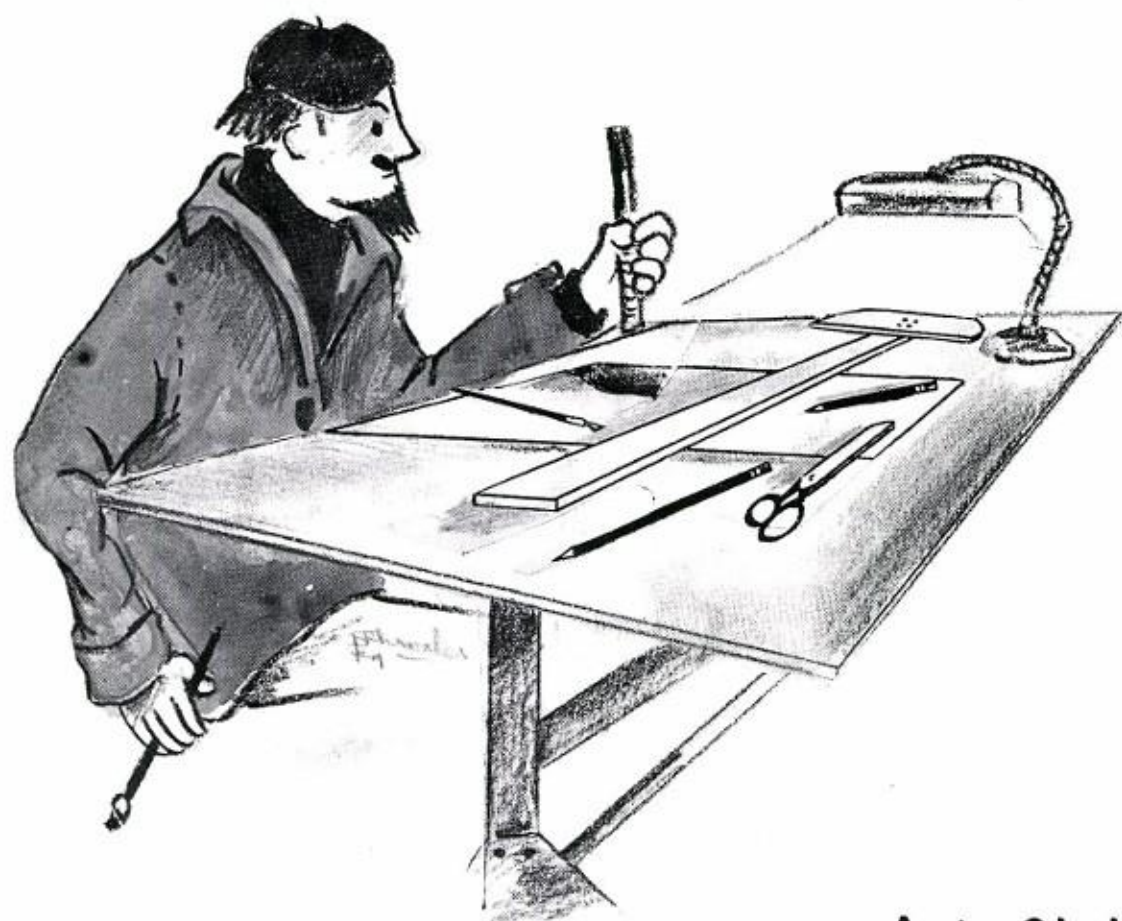

The "Mummers" is a new club at Lincoln-Way combining the Drama Club, Acting Class and Thespians. Their interesting name is derived from the masked players who roamed the European countryside performing drama, dances and comedies in past centuries.

Thespians

The Lincoln-Way Chapter of the Thespians was founded in 1958-59. Since then, they have assumed much of the responsibility for furthering the dramatic arts and performance quality in the various school plays and variety shows.

When ever a student has earned the required amount of points by working in school productions, he is inducted.

The Future Farmers of America is composed of boys interested in an agricultural vocation. They participate in many activities during the year, including agricultural projects, safety campaigns, recreational activities and educational tours. Their motto, "Learn by doing", plays a large part in group attitude. Members pay special attention to land and cattle judging, parliamentary procedure, public speaking and livestock projects. These club activities prepare the members for future vocational responsibilities and help them to become better acquainted with the importance of agriculture in America.

Every year a group of students assemble to form a yearbook staff. Each person assumes a specific job and the task begins. Layouts must be made, checked, and checked again. Pictures must be scheduled, taken and sorted. Copy has to be written and rewritten. With the editor acting as the guiding force of the staff and the sponsor serving as advisor to everyone, the yearbook preparation moves forward to meet deadlines, and finally, to put the finished result in the hands of the student.

For the first time since the mimeographed editions of the Lincoln Log, an early short-lived newspaper, Lincoln-Way has a regular, monthly printed school newspaper. THESQUIRE was named by an all-school contest conducted by the journalism class taught by Mr. Wayne M. Sutton. Under the advisor's guidance members of the class put in extra outside work to write and edit copy for the paper, as well as preparing it for the printer by pasting up the copy after it was typed on the IBM variable spacing typewriter. Headlines were set in the Information Services office where the final touches were made before sending the copy to the printer's camera.

This year has seen, examined and heard many things. It has stood tall, high, and majestic above the world and examined it much like a tree. We as individuals stood tall to master our own thoughts, stood tall to acquire knowledge, and looked ever higher to conquer expectations and dreams of the future.

The Senior Class of 1965 will enter a world far different than any experienced in past years, for they are about to enter adulthood. The underclassmen step up to complete the perpetual "Portrait of Lincoln-Way."

And as the students, the school and the Lincoln-Way communities grow they will be likened to a tree, standing straight and tall in the world.

The 1965 Aegis staff would like to thank the following for their cooperation and encouragement:

Norman King Yearbook Company
Waling Studios

Mr. Joe Feehan, Norman King Representative

Mr. Wayne M. Sutton, Aegis Advisor
Mr. A. Hunter Chapman, L. W. Superintendent
